90 People Cross U. S. In Giant Navy Plane

Can Carry Up To 168 Passengers

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Navy's giant Constitution landed at National Airport at 8:30 p. m. (CST) tonight, nine hours and 35 minutes out of San Francisco with the largest passenger load ever to span America by air.

The 72 passengers and 18 crew men covered the 2,557-mile airway of route at an average speed of 268 miles an hour.

The 184,000 pound transport was eased on to the runway to skillfully that some passengers were not aware it was down.

The flight was the first regular operational trip in a six months series of transcontinental runs to be made as part of the navy's evaluation of the largest aircraft it ever has owned. The Constitution, largest in the Lockheed family of planes, will be used regularly as a passenger transport between Patuxent River, Md., naval air station and Moffett field, near San Francisco.

The passengers were accommodated entirely on the upper deck, capable of seating 92, in a cabin with grey walls, rose carpet and dark blue seats.

They had coffee and cookies for a takeoff snack, T-bone steak and all that goes with it for lunch, sandwiches and ice cream before landing.

Lower Decks For Cargo

The plane can accommodate 168 passengers if used entirely for personnel, but in its normal operation the two vast holds of the lower deck will be used for cargo. The navy has two ships in the Constitution class.

Today's flight set neither a speed nor air lift record, but is distinguished by the fact it carried the most passengers ever hauled on a regular transcontinental flight operation.

The Constitution, largest commercial-type plane ever built, left Moffett field near San Francisco at 10:55 a. m., CST. Commander William Collins, the pilot, says it would land at Washington, D. C., about 9 p. m., CST—a flight of about 10 hours.

It passed over Cheyenne, Wyo., at 3:10 p. m., CST.

CAA stations subsequently reported this timetable on the flight:

Over Grand Island, Neb., 4:25 p. m.

Over Omaha, 4:50 p. m.

Over Des Moines, Ia., 5:14 p. m.

Over Joliet, Ill., 6:11 p. m.

Over Toledo, O., 6:37 p. m.

The CAA said the craft was flying at a ground speed of 308 miles an hour at an altitude of 20,000 feet over Des Moines. Its altitude was 17,000 feet over Toledo.

Seemed Empty

The huge plane seemed almost empty. There are 72 newspapermen and radio men aboard. With the 18 ber of persons ever carried by plane, this is the largest number across country non-stop—but the Constitution was built to carry 180 passengers and crew members.

The Constitution is so big three railroad cars could be crammed into its sleek hull, and still have room left over for a passenger bus.

The plane is divided into two decks. Seventy-six persons can be carried in the two cabins on the lower deck. The flight station, the engineer's complex panels, the navigator's booth, the radio "shack" and crew quarters, and even a galley equipped for serving 300 hot meals are on the top deck.

The Lockheed plane was commissioned by the navy yesterday.

President Greets 34 Foreign Youths At White House

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—President Truman spoke a homely little lesson today on how democracy functions in the United States "so that no one has too much power."

His audience—a wide-eyed, delighted group of 34 teen-age youngsters from 17 Marshall Plan countries—broke into spontaneous hand-clapping at his words.

Only too well, they knew what he meant.

All of them, in more or less degree, have lived under the shadowy fear of dictators. But the president told them:

"The power is in the people themselves."

Foley Says U.S. Needs 18 Million New Houses

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Raymond M. Foley, federal housing administrator, told congress today the nation needs between 17 and 18 million new dwellings within the next 10 years.

He said the government must provide outright grants as well as loans to cities to help them clear and redevelop slum areas.

Testifying before the Senate banking committee, Foley said:

"In city after city, the rates of infant mortality, disease, juvenile delinquency, crime and fires are at least twice as great in slum and blighted areas as in the city at large."

He mentioned Boston and Newark, N. J., as examples of the need for a nationwide slum clearance program.

Foley appeared in support of bills designed to carry out the administration's program for long-range, government-subsidized slum clearance, public housing and rural homes.

Chairman Sparkman (D-Ala.) said he hopes to complete public hearings in about two weeks and then draft legislation for Senate action.

Senator Ellender (D-La.) urged approval of a one-package bill which would authorize federal aid for constructing 1,050,000 public housing units over the next seven years.

But Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) objected that such a vast program might take away scarce materials and labor from private builders. He contended this would only intensify the current housing shortage and high prices.

Foley, urging the full 1,050,000-unit program, told the committee:

"We cannot afford a lesser program at this time."

Foley bolstered his argument by picturing slums as not only dreary but expensive.

"In Newark, for example, it was found that in 1946 the per capita revenues from an area of good housing exceeded public expenditures in that area by $108. In a slum area, expenditures exceeded revenues by $88."

Meanwhile, Chairman Spence (D-Ky.) of the House banking committee said congress may write a ban against mass eviction of tenants in its new rent control bill. The House group starts hearings next Monday on the administration's bill to extend and strengthen rent controls for two years.

Spence was commenting on the action by some landlords to withdraw their rental property from the market in protest against rent control.

Says Europe Gets Better Housing Than U.S. By ERP

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Marshall plan aid is giving parts of Europe better housing and schools than many American communities have, George D. Stoddard, president of the University of Illinois, said today.

"Even so, I don't think we should pull away from the Marshall plan," Stoddard told the opening session of the annual conference of the National Commission on Children and Youth.

"Unless some hope is secured for the millions of illiterate children of other nations they may yet become the center of gravity for world aggression."

Stoddard deplored the quality and cost of housing being offered war veterans in this country and added:

"Many of these boys are paying taxes to provide certain European villages with fine homes—houses much better than the ones they are offered, we should literally and figuratively set our own house in order."

The Constitution, largest commercial-type plane ever built, left Moffett field near San Francisco at 10:55 a. m., CST. Commander William Collins, the pilot, says it would land at Washington, D. C., about 9 p. m., CST—a flight of about 10 hours.

Prayer Answered As Child Is Born To Woman, 59

Helena, Ark., Feb. 3.—(AP)—A 59-year-old Helena woman has given birth to her sixth child. She described the event as "an answer to a prayer."

The mother is Mrs. Fred J. Turley, a nurse whose other five children all are dead. The father is a 65-year-old barber.

The baby, born Saturday night, is a five-pound, four-ounce boy who's doing fine.

Two of her daughters were killed in his accident in 1941. A son and two daughters died in service in World War Two.

Asks Dismissal Of Suit Against Stateville Warden

Chicago, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The state today asked dismissal of a suit accusing Stateville Prison Warden Joseph E. Ragen of "sadism."

The suit was filed Jan. 16 by three convicts who asked $300,000 damages each. They also asked an injunction restraining the warden and other prison officials from continuing certain practices of punishment and administration in the prison.

Special Assistant Attorney General Henry P. Tenney said in his dismissal motion that the administration of the prison is purely a matter within the jurisdiction of the State of Illinois and that the prisoners are not citizens with citizens' rights.

His petition, filed in U. S. District Court, said the prisoners' suit "abounds in scandalous, impertinent and immaterial statements."

Tenney was given until next Thursday to file briefs supporting his motion to dismiss the suit.

CHICAGO OUTDOORS SHOW OPENS TONIGHT

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Chicago outdoors show, called the world's greatest recreation industries exposition by its sponsor, the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., opens tomorrow night at Navy Pier.

Three miles of exhibits covering every phase of outdoor recreation will be on view. Some 300,000 persons attended last year's show.

The show will continue daily through Feb. 12.

Accidental Death Rate In America Hits Lowest Mark

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The American accidental death rate was lower last year than in any year for which records were compiled.

The national safety council reported the 1948 accident toll was 98,000, a rate of 67.1 per 100,000 population. The previous low mark was 68.4 in 1921. Last year's total compared with 99,579 in 1947.

All types of accident fatalities declined, except those in the home. Home accident deaths were up one per cent over 1947.

Motor vehicle fatalities dropped two per cent despite an increase in travel miles; occupational deaths went down three per cent; public accident deaths other than motor vehicle deaths six per cent, and deaths of military personnel in accidents declined eight per cent.

The council estimated that the cost to the nation's economy from accident deaths, injuries and property damage in 1948 was $7,200,000,000. This figure included wage losses, medical expense, insurance costs, production delays and damage to industrial equipment.

But Senator Flanders (R-Vt.) objected that such a vast program might take away scarce materials and labor from private builders. He contended this would only intensify the current housing shortage and high prices.

Foley, urging the full 1,050,000-unit program, told the committee:

Ex-GI Says 'Axis Sally' Posed As Red Cross Worker

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A former American soldier who was captured by the Germans testified today that "Axis Sally" posed as a Red Cross worker when she interviewed wounded U.S. prisoners for Nazi broadcasts.

The witness, Gilbert Lee Hansford, 27, of Cincinnati, made the statement in testifying at the treason trial of Mildred E. Gillars, 48, in federal court here.

Still limping from his war wound, Hansford told the jury he was captured July 29, 1944, and was taken to a hospital in German-held Paris. A few days later, he said, Miss Gillars came to see him.

Hansford said he agreed to record a message for broadcast to his parents after Miss Gillars to his stipulation that he would not have to say anything "against my country."

Chief Prosecutor John M. Kelley, Jr., brought out that the actual broadcast—as picked up and recorded by U.S. monitors in this country—was loaded with Nazi propaganda before and after Hansford's message.

Only at the foreign broadcast, where vice minister George Yeh was still keeping office hours, was there any semblance of civility.

Foreign correspondents who went to the information ministry for the usual weekly news conference found it locked. At the defense ministry, an attendant told inquirers for the military spokesman, "he's gone away."

An informed source said leaders of the government's control and legislative Yuan had asked Premier Sun Fo to return to Nanking from Shanghai but Sun replied he was going to Canton and advised them to do likewise.

The government has announced it will be open for business in Canton Saturday (Feb. 5).

Navy Mothballs 72 Ships To Balance Budget For 1950

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Navy today put new stress on "anti-submarine readiness" as it ordered 72 ships mothballed to make way for other vessels better adapted for defense against overseas attack.

Secretary of the Navy Sullivan disclosed the slimming down operation has the added objective of trimming fleet expenditures to come within the $15,000,000,000 budget ceiling President Truman set for the armed forces. The Navy was allotted $4,600,000,000 for the next fiscal year starting July 1 as compared with nearly $5,100,000,000 for the current period.

Sullivan said 15 major ships—three 27,000-ton aircraft carriers, nine light cruisers and three anti-aircraft cruisers—had been ordered to the reserve fleet. The other 57 are smaller auxiliary craft such as minesweepers and amphibious and patrol vessels.

The questions about Stalin and Russia came thick and fast. They were prompted by Stalin's offer—in reply to a newspaperman's written questions—to meet the president in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Truman recalled that he had given the Soviet premier an invitation to Washington at the Potsdam conference. He said he is willing to see him here any time.

But he made it clear that there would be no ignoring the United Nations in any discussion that might result from such a meeting here.

Medina Refuses To Hear Further Debate From Reds

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A federal judge, wearying of lengthy arguments and intricate statistical data, today cracked down on defense counsel for prolonged arguments in the case against 11 top-rank U.S. communists.

He refused to hear any more about one matter under discussion and indicated he might order a halt to defense arguments that the federal jury selection system is discriminatory here.

"We have reached the point where an argument goes on and on over relatively small points," Judge Harold R. Medina told the defense lawyers.

They replied, however, they were "trying to shorten the proceedings" by introducing maps, and charts, and other statistical analyses in their effort to prove jury discrimination.

RECORD SALES TAX Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—State sales tax collections hit a record high of $17,935,000 in January, the revenue department said today. January returns reflect Christmas sales.

Last month's sales tax income was $1,088,000 above January, 1947.

SENATE ELECTS CHAPMAN Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Senate today formally elected the Rev. Dr. Frederick Brown Harris, pastor of the Foundry Methodist church here, as its chaplain. He succeeds the late Rev. Dr. Peter Marshall.

Truman Says New Labor Bill Needs No Court Injunction

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty Pleads Partial Guilt At Treason Trial

By Endre Marton

Budapest, Hungary, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The prosecution charged tonight that Josef Cardinal Mindszenty, now on trial for treason, had attempted to get U. S. Minister Selden Chapin to help him escape prison and flee Hungary by plane.

The court recorded Cardinal Mindszenty as acknowledging the attempt after he made a reply which was barely audible. The court then adjourned until 10 a. m. (3 a. m. CST) tomorrow.

Hungary's Roman Catholic primate pleaded partial guilt earlier to the government charges against him. He firmly denied, however, that he had plotted to overthrow Hungary's Communist-dominated regime.

All of the things charged against him, the cardinal said, occurred early in 1947, "when many people thought that a third world war was inevitable."

Cardinal Mindszenty said that in the future he would have regard for the sovereignty of the Hungarian government. He also offered to withdraw from his office for a time if such a move would help establish peace between the government and the Catholic church.

Cardinal Mindszenty and six other defendants went on trial today on charges of treason, spying and black market money dealings.

In its "yellow book" on Cardinal Mindszenty's case, the government charged Chapin sought military and other information from the cardinal. Those charges were rejected by the U. S. state department, which expressed full confidence in Chapin.

The cardinal was clad in the robes of a simple priest when he was brought in to face the court.

There was nothing to indicate that the Hungarian primate had been beaten or drugged, as had been charged abroad. His facial expression contained the same fixed look of religious zeal which marked his appearance before his arrest last Dec. 27.

(The Vatican City newspaper L'Osservatore Romano referred to the trial as Mindszenty's "Calvary.") The Vatican radio described the trial as unpardonable and said "all seems to indicate there is not much hope" for Mindszenty. Vatican City dispatches pointed out that, under church law, all Catholics who put the cardinal on trial before civil judges will be excommunicated. The Vatican already has excommunicated all Catholics who had anything to do with his arrest.)

Speaking in calm, clear tones, Cardinal Mindszenty told the five-man people's court:

"I plead partly guilty, having committed the majority of those deeds I am charged with."

Then under questioning by presiding Judge Vilmos Olthely, the 56-year-old leader of Hungary's 7,000,000 Catholics said:

"It is not my intention to minimize matters. I must state that I cannot accept all of the conclusions contained in the indictment as a consequence of my activities."

"I cannot, for instance, accept the charge which alleged that I organized or led a movement to destroy the democratic system of this state."

The commission agreed on qualifications for Township road units or consolidated Township road units to become eligible for recommended distribution of motor fuel taxes.

They would have to meet: one of these three requirements: levy taxes necessary for grading and drainage, levy maximum taxes possible under state laws, or have more than 40 miles of Township roads within their boundaries.

A two cent increase in the state's three cents a gallon gasoline tax previously was recommended by the commission with 12 1/2 per cent diverted for Township roads. These roads heretofore have received only biennial appropriations from the state treasury to supplement local property tax revenue.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A presidential emergency board will try a second time Monday to iron out a 10-month dispute between the nation's railroads and their 1,000,000 non-operating employees.

Negotiators for the carriers and the 16 unions said Dr. William M. Leiserson, chairman of the fact-finding board, which made earlier recommendations for settlement, has promised that the three man board will interpret and clarify the report it made to President Truman Dec. 17.

George E. Leighty of St. Louis, chairman of the union bargaining committee, and Daniel L. Loomis, head of the carriers negotiating committee, said that three weeks of conferences seeking a settlement on the basis of the emergency board's report bogged down because of disagreement over the board's intent as to application of its suggestions.

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—President Truman said positively today that this government won't spurn the United Nations for separate talks with Russia or any other country.

Mr. Truman told a news conference that Secretary of State Dean Acheson's detailed rejection of Prime Minister Stalin's indirect "peace" talk offer had his full endorsement.

Asked if this nation would meet with other powers outside the UN, Mr. Truman replied flatly that it would not.

The questions about Stalin and Russia came thick and fast. They were prompted by Stalin's offer—in reply to a newspaperman's written questions—to meet the president in Russia, Poland or Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Truman recalled that he had given the Soviet premier an invitation to Washington at the Potsdam conference. He said he is willing to see him here any time.

Commission Okays Proposal To Join Road Districts

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Proposals to encourage consolidation of Township Road districts and to license farm wagons pulled on the highways were approved today by the Illinois highway and traffic problems commission.

Rural commission members, who framed the consolidation plan, said funds could be used more efficiently in larger units. The proposal also would enlarge tax raising powers of consolidated road districts.

The commission agreed on qualifications for Township road units or consolidated Township road units to become eligible for recommended distribution of motor fuel taxes.

SPORTS HEROES AREN'T WHOLLY RESPONSIBLE FOR OUR CHILDREN

When sportswriters recall the world series scandal of 1919 they often tell the story of the little boy and Joe Jackson, one of the Black Sox of the Chicago White Sox. The youthful fan is supposed to have approached Shoeless Joe with this tearful plea: "Say it ain't so, Joe."

This story is usually told to illustrate the responsibility that is supposed to be part of the sports hero's price of fame. Nor is it an isolated case. Leo Durocher, in his various excursions in and out of trouble, has more than once been reminded that he should set an example of upright living for our small fry. Other athletes have received the same admonition.

The inference is that the country's professional athletes receive a sort of honorary commission as Scoutmaster when they make the headlines and the big money. This inference has taken on the solemn trappings of a national tradition with the passage of time.

But Bill Veeck, the president of the world champion Cleveland Indians, filed a minority report in a banquet speech the other night. He said he was tired of hearing talk about how sports and athletes build character.

"I wouldn't be here tonight just as a character builder," said Mr. Veeck. "You have to win to be invited to banquets."

We are inclined to agree with the Indians' head man. We feel safe in saying that few if any lives have been blighted by youthful disillusionment caused by the extracurricular behavior of professional athletes.

The late Babe Ruth, was one of the greatest idols that sport has produced. He was a remarkable compound of strength co-ordination, instinctive baseball sense and colorful personality.

But throughout his playing career, the Babe had a reputation of being a bad boy off the field—not evil or criminal, but irresponsible to a degree far beyond the limits of Sunday School standards. So far as we know, this did not diminish his stature as a public hero.

All this may not be too important, but it is a little unfair to the athletes. It's enough of a strain on the average pro's mentality to keep well enough in shape to play his best, please the boss and the fans, and justify his handsome salary. He shouldn't be saddled with the added job of crusading against juvenile delinquency—an assignment which understandably he might not even comprehend.

So far as we can learn, most delinquency arises from a child's home environment and treatment, not from his reaction to the off-limits escapades of ball players. The real defenses against delinquency are the home, the social and economic environment, the church and the school—perhaps roughly in that order. It might be well if we stopped shifting responsibility to young men who may be stronger in muscle than in brain, and who are simply earning a living in the best way they know how.

THE FOUR FIELDS

The engagement notice of a New York young woman mentioned incidentally that she was a lineal descendant of David Dudley Field. Thus is recalled the name of an extraordinary family.

David Dudley Field was a great lawyer and law reformer who brought about the enactment of New York's civil code, the model for many other states. He died in 1894 at the age of 89. Another brother who outlived him, Henry M., was a noted clergyman and author of travel and religious books.

Both were outshone, at least in fame, by their two brothers, Stephen J., of California was appointed to the Supreme Court by Lincoln, and served 34 years, two months longer than his nearest rival for length of service, Chief Justice Marshall. But perhaps even he was not the greatest of the Fields. That honor may fairly be claimed by Cyrus W. who conceived and brought about the laying of the Atlantic cable. Failure after failure, both electrical and commercial, hampered him for ten years, but finally in 1866 the deed was done, and Cyrus W. Field went down in history as a benefactor of the world.

Westminster Budget For Year Subscribed

Westminster Presbyterian church finished its financial year with all debts paid, a balance of $962.09 in the treasury, and the budget for the current year fully subscribed, according to reports presented by the trustees at the annual congregational meeting held Wednesday night in the church parlors.

Dr. L. E. Staff, chairman of the board, and Mrs. G. S. Rogerson, treasurer, presented the reports. In addition to the regular expenses of the church, the roof of the building has been repaired, the pipe organ reconstructed, a stoker installed, and the manse repaired and repainted, the garage placed on a concrete base, and a new driveway constructed.

Mrs. F. F. McCarthy, Bible school superintendent, reported that the new curriculum of the Presbyterian church is being used for the adults. Miss Stella Gilbert, primary superintendent for many years, had resigned in September, and Mrs. A. F. Ewert is now serving in that capacity. The report of the treasurer, Miss Louise Harris, showed all debts paid and a substantial balance in the treasury.

Install Stoker at Manse
The Ladies' Aid society, represented by the treasurer, Mrs. T. V. Archer reported that seven birthday parties and two rummage sales had been held during the year. From the proceeds of these and from dues and gifts, $200 was paid to regular church expenses, a stoker installed in the manse, and a kitchenette installed for the lower parlors of the church.

The treasurer of the Women's Missionary society, Miss Louise Holmes, reported the apportionment of $309 for the mission boards had been paid in full, and also contributions made to the contingent fund of Presbytery, to the Board of Christian Education, Kemmerer Orphanage, and work in the Philippines. In addition sewing had been done for Canada Hospital in New Mexico, and thirteen towel packs prepared for European relief under the direction of the Women's Council of Churches.

$660 For Benevolences
The report of church benevolences given by the treasurer, Walter Rabjohns, showed $660 contributed to the regular boards of the Presbyterian church, and payments made on pledges to the Restoration Fund of the church.

The report of the religious work of the church by the pastor, Dr. Arthur F. Ewert, showed preaching services held every Sunday of the year with the exception of the month of July when the pastor was on vacation. Sunday school held every week of the year, and during the fall and winter season meetings of the Senior and Junior Westminster Fellowships on Sunday evenings. A nursery class has been organized to care for young children during the church services, under the direction of Miss Jean Renfro of MacMurray College. An organization of the young married couples of the church has been formed, meeting monthly at the homes of members. The pastor has conducted services at the State Hospital, the School for the Deaf, and has spoken at many public and organization meetings in the city. The pastoral work has included many calls and other forms of service.

Add Members to Board
The report of the nominating committee, read by Dr. L. E. Staff, asked that because of the important work to be done during the year in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the present church building, the rotating rule for boards of the church be suspended, and that to the present boards be added other members to bring the number up to ten. In accordance with this request, the following new members were added to the boards: Session, Elbert Brasel, Harold McCarty, Fred Turnbaugh; deacons, Benjamin Large, Sam Harris, Frank Harris, Earl Tilton, John Smith; trustees, Dr. Glenn G. Gross. Other appointments were governors of Passavant Hospital, Mrs. Andrew O. Harris, Mrs. R. O. Sloops, Miss Katherine Barr; chairman of music committee, Mrs. Orville Coultas; chairman publicity committee, Miss Margaret K. Moore, chairman of flower committee, Miss Mabel Hall Goltz.

The meeting was brought to a close by a tribute paid to the pastor by the pastor emeritus, Rev. Mr. William C. Meeker, who pronounced the benediction.

The service was preceded by a covered-dish dinner, hostesses for which were Miss Margaret Moore, Mrs. Elbert Brasel, Mrs. Orville Coultas, and Mrs. Walter Lohman.

More Husbands For Married Ladies

By HAL BOYLE

New York.—(P)—It was Mrs. Trellis Mae Peeble's turn to lead the weekly current events discussion at her club—the Crochet and Croquet Society.

"What's the topic? Asked her husband, Wilbur.

Trellis Mae looked up from her notebook and pile of newspapers.

"More husbands for married ladies," she said brightly. "Don't you think it's a wonderful topic?"

"I don't get it," said Wilbur. "And I have a feeling right now I never will."

"I don't see why you say that," complained Trellis Mae. "It's very simple. I got the idea out of the newspaper. It says there's a lady schoolteacher in Germany who found there were 7,000,000 extra German men."

"So she thinks German wives should be allowed more than one husband. It would keep the poor men from becoming lonely old bachelors. I am going to bring her idea up before our club members for discussion."

"You mean wives would check out husbands like they do books from the circulating libraries?" asked Wilbur.

"Something like that, I suppose," said Trellis Mae placidly. "A wife could have a nice husband to keep around the house—like you, Wilbur. She could have another one—a richer husband—to pay the bills. Any maybe a third one to take her dancing in the evening."

"There is something screwball about all this," said her husband. "Give me that newspaper."

Wilbur read the article carefully. And a smug leer spread across his face.

"Why you've got the thing backwards," he laughed. "There are 7,000,000 extra women, not men, in Germany. What this schoolteacher means is that men ought to be allowed to marry more than one woman. It's really a share-the-husband program, so there won't be any old maids."

"The very idea!" gasped Trellis Mae. "That's immoral!"

"Well, it's only vice versa from what you thought," grinned Wilbur. "By golly, that schoolteacher may have something."

"Let's see. I could check out a brunette to cook my breakfast, a blonde to take to a night club, and a redhead to—"

"No, dear," he said hastily. "I'll stick by what my dad always told me: 'You wouldn't want any other wife but me, would you?'"

Wilbur saw that her hot and cold running tear faucets were about to open.

"No, dear," he said hastily. "I'll stick by what my dad always told me: 'You wouldn't want any other wife but me, would you?'"

"I suppose," said Trellis Mae, "that in your family that was intended as a compliment."

"I suppose," replied her husband, "it is in every family."

Trellis Mae smiled and came over and sat in her husband's lap. She kissed him.

"I guess I had better pick another current events topic," she said. "That other one is too silly for words. It doesn't even make sense."

"Why don't you talk about Joe Stalin, the man in the Kremlin?" suggested Wilbur.

"What's he doing in there?" asked Trellis Mae. "Won't they let him out?"

Wilbur sighed and reached toward her notebook and newspaper. It looked like a long evening.

Although George Washington knew nothing of his ancestors beyond his great-grandfather, genealogists have traced his recent back to one of William the Conqueror's Norman knights.

Glasgow Grade School Closed; Too Much Ice

Glasgow—Due to prevailing icy conditions the past week, the local grade school has been closed since last Thursday. Scheduled church services at the local Baptist Church last Sunday morning were cancelled, as well as the Sunday School hours at both the Baptist and Christian churches on account of the dangerous icy conditions.

The Baptist Mission Circle program for January, that was to have been at the home of Mrs. Dessie Lewis last Friday evening, was also postponed until a future date.

This community, along with neighboring areas, has had a pretty fair sample of the prehistoric ice age the past week, with all walks, streets, rural roads and the ground in general being covered with a thin but very slippery coat of ice that arrived the first of last week.

The glassy surface of the village streets made very passable skating rinks for those desiring that form of exercise, however it was very hazardous for man, beast or vehicle.

Local residents have suffered falls of various patterns but no serious injuries have been reported from the tumbles.

The graduated curves on the gravel roads leading out of town proved very difficult for cars to navigate due to the solid layer of ice from side to side. Limestone was spread on the curves of the Glasgow-Alsey gravel road Saturday afternoon, improving traction to a large degree.

Tenth Of A Ton Club

Menin, Belgium—(P)—The town of Menin (famous for its gates) boasts what must be one of the strangest clubs in the world. The only stipulation of membership is to weigh over 200 pounds.

The club is called "Hecto" and meets regularly in the "Hotel de Flandres" in Menin.

Before each reunion every member must be weighed. If he does not come up to 200 pounds he is automatically refused admission to the conference.

The rules of the club say that the president of the meeting shall be the member who weighs the most, the vice-president the second heaviest and so on through the various degrees of seniority.

The reigning president, a Dutchman named Alois Kindt, has a respectable 298 pounds to his credit, with the vice president a mere 270.

"Hecto" has its periodical banquets. During these the members vie with each other to see who can pack in most food. The menus of these Bacchanalian feasts read much like a dictionary of good eating. The only thing taboo is green peas.

Beards Unpopular In Russia

Moscow—(P)—Contrary to belief abroad there are probably fewer beards in Russia than there are in the British Royal navy. Plentiful barber shops, the low price of shaves, and inexpensive moustache-cutting machinery have made the beard an easy thing to get rid of.

The Tsars—particularly Peter the Great—tried for years to make the pre-Revolutionary Russian male come clean by official edict. But they were unsuccessful. The Russian beard not only grew, but flourished.

The Soviet has never assaulted the beard with law or lectures. They've just let it go its own way—and that way, judging from the sartorial scene in the USSR—has been off the face.

True, patriarchs and other churchmen cling to bosom-long beards, or to be more correct, the bosom-long beards cling to the churchmen.

But even in the country these days one encounters but few beards.

Overworked Stork Gets Help

Bren, Switzerland—(P)—There must be something wrong with what they say about storks.

Between 80,000 and 90,000 babies are born in Switzerland every year, yet Swiss nature lovers are complaining that storks have almost entirely disappeared from the country.

Nearly 150 nests were occupied by storks in Switzerland in 1900. By 1920, the number had declined to 60 and by 1940 to eight. In the summer of 1948, only six pairs of storks settled down in Switzerland, and artificial "resettlement" projects are being undertaken to prevent their complete disappearance.

Under the direction of a Swiss ornithologist, Max Bloesch, young storks are being bred in captivity. Their young are to be set free, in the hope that they will migrate, then return to the vicinity of their Swiss breeding places in the summer. The experiments are expected to cost the Swiss government about $3,500 per year.

Abigail Smith Adams, who died in 1818, was the only woman who has ever been both wife and mother of a President of the United States; her husband was John Adams and her son, John Quincy Adams.

When Frances Folsom Cleveland was married at the age of 22 to Grover Cleveland, she became the First Lady to be married in the White House.

Mind Over Mattress

WHITE HALL

White Hall—Eugene McCarthy, student at Eureka college, spent the week end with relatives in this city.

Mrs. Fileen Kurbach of Hillview spent the weekend with her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Berline and family.

Schools at White Hall and Hillview were resumed Monday after being closed Friday due to the weather conditions.

Swiss Arms Trade Stirs Up Dispute

Geneva—(P)—Neutral Switzerland has exported nearly nine million dollars worth of war materials since the export of war materials was banned by the federal government in June, 1946.

This little anomaly created so much talk and head-shaking in this peace-loving country that the Federal Council made an explanation. The council says the law banning exports of arms provides for the granting of exceptions in certain cases for the sale abroad of used Swiss ordnance material and small calibre arms and munitions. The following conditions are strictly observed:

"1. Every export to nations at war or nations whose situation raises the fear that they might be involved in wars is refused.

"2. We deal only with governments (not with private concerns) which pledge not to export again the delivered weapons."

The council said the exports were mainly to South American countries and included mostly materials no longer needed by the Swiss Army. Argentina and Nicaragua are the two chief purchasers of Swiss arms in South America. In June and July of last year, Argentina bought arms worth approximately 2,500,000 Swiss francs (slightly over a half million dollars.) Published figures of the Swiss foreign trade department:

STUFFY NOSTRILS?
QUICK RELIEF WITH MENTHOLATUM
SOOTHES IRRITATED MEMBRANES
...OPENS UP STUFFY NOSTRILS

show that Nicaragua's purchases amounted to 1,320,000 francs ($303,600) in April, 436,489 francs in June, 1,200,000 francs in August and 1,390,000 francs in October.

The "National Zeitung" of Basel publishing these figures recently, said:

"Although the muskets go off easily in Latin America, Nicaragua's need for weapons under these circumstances is not very convincing. Do Swiss arms and munitions really go in the declared amounts to Argentina and Nicaragua? Both states have a sea trade, both are adapted splendidly as middlemen."

POWER PLANT

that uses its Head!

THIS is the husky thrill-producer you find filling the bonnet of any 1949 Buick.

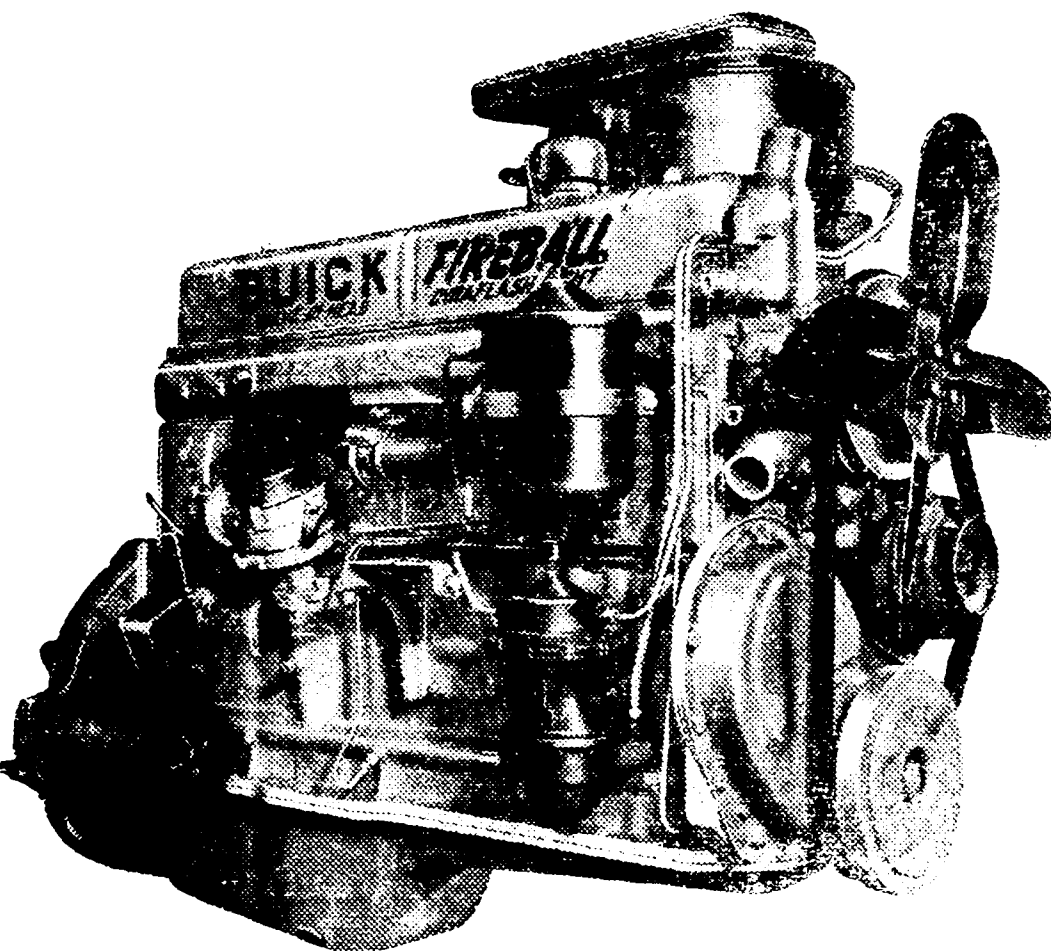

Look it over and you'll observe, among other things, that it is a valve-in-head straight-eight.

In simple language, this means that years ago Buick engineers lifted the valves from the side of the cylinder and put them on top—with some immediate advantages.

Such an engine "breathes" better. Gets a full, even charge on every intake—exhausts spent gases more easily—enjoys extra power, life and ginger.

And in such engines, compression ratios are relatively easy to establish. To step them up, the head is merely brought closer to the piston—no extra problems are presented getting fuel in and exhaust out.

Thus Buick power can—and has—kept pace with progress in fuels. Compression ratios suit gasolines actually available—and there's no waiting for tomorrow's gasolines to get full performance.

There are other things to notice about this engine.

It's a Fireball power plant—uses a special and exclusive type of piston that gets more good out of each fuel charge.

And it speaks with soft, new quiet. Self-setting valve lifters automatically keep valves properly seated, ending tappet noises for good.

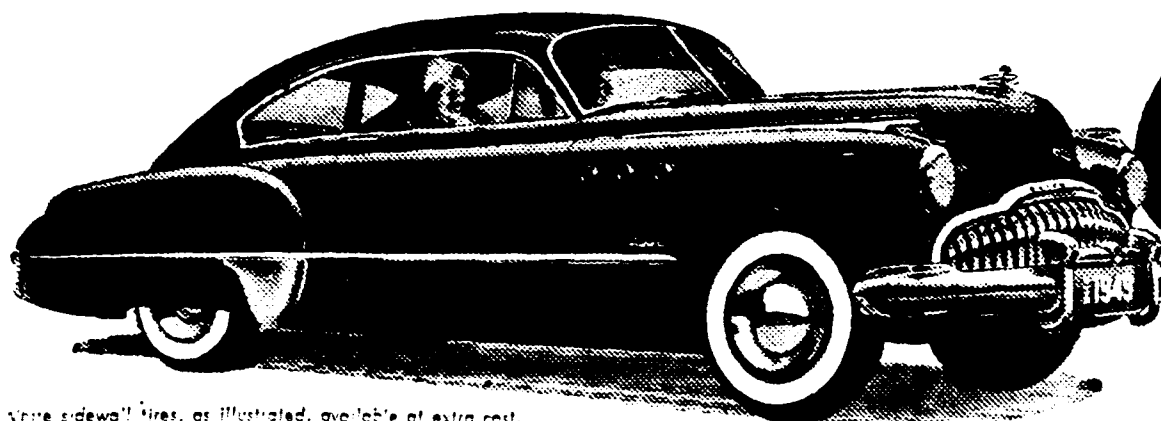

With gasolines getting better, the swing to valve-in-head design will undoubtedly grow stronger. But that is what Buick has had all along—a power plant that uses its head to give extra lift and thrill.

That's enough reason to see your Buick dealer now, with or without a car to trade, to get your order in.

writers also will be represented. The English classical writers will be represented by:
Dickens, Fielding, Smollett, Sterne and Goethe.
The Indian writer Mulk Raj Anand "Coolie" is to be published in Russian this year.
Chinese classical poetry will be published extensively.

According to A. Kolov, director of the State Publishing House for Fine Literature, a six volume edition of Pushkin's complete works will be issued in 1949.

A prominent place in the publishing house's plans is occupied by Russian classical literature. About 25,000 titles are scheduled for this year.

"In spite of the huge book printing programs, which increase from year to year," says an announcement, "the market is still far from glutted. It is only a matter of hours for new books to be sold in Soviet book stores. (Moscow alone has about 400 bookstores.) Everywhere in the country the demand is greater than the supply."

The year's biggest editions are scheduled for the works of V. I. Lenin. The final volumes of a 40-volume edition of his collected works are to appear in 1949. The edition is a half million.

Douglas-Upchurch Rites Performed At Beardstown

Ashland—In a candlelight ceremony at four o'clock on Jan. 29, vows were spoken uniting in marriage Miss Jean Upchurch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Upchurch, 1116 Edwards street, Beardstown, and William Ramon

Douglas, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Douglas, of this city. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride's parents, with Rev. K. T. Knudsen of the First Lutheran church, using the double ring ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony, a 15 minute recital was given by Mrs. Jesse Douglas, mother of the bridegroom.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a suit of pastel blue and carried yellow roses. Attending the couple were Miss Jane Ann Smith of Rochester, Indiana and Robert Douglas of this city, the bridegroom's brother. Jim Upchurch, brother of the bride, was the usher.

Assisting at the reception following the ceremony were Miss Ruth Williams of Glenn Ellyn, Ill.; Miss Jeanne Sprately of Chicago; Miss Barbara Horton of Normal, Ill.; Mrs. Robert Douglas, of this city; Mrs. Peter Nizolek, Chicago, and Mrs. Fred Schroll, Beardstown.

The bride is a graduate of St. Luke's Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago, and has been employed at the Schmidt Memorial hospital in Beardstown the past few months.

The bridegroom is a senior at the Illinois State University. The couple will reside at 718 W. Taylor, Bloomington, Ill.

Most folks agree that steak is worth every bit of the careful planning you do to fit it into your menus. Here is meat flavor at its best, and that's something everyone likes.

Because of the place steak holds in everyone's appetite, it is important to buy and cook it correctly. Generally speaking, it is possible to buy steak according to the number of persons to be served. Much depends on the thickness of the steak, of course, for a thicker steak will serve more people.

A club steak is usually considered an individual serving, though if thick it will serve two. Porterhouse and T-bone steaks are suitable for serving two or three persons, and a sirloin steak is adequate for four to six persons, depending on the thickness.

Broiling Produces Juiciness
As for cooking the steaks, the words "broil" and "steak" are almost synonymous. A cooking process called "panbroiling" is also desirable especially when steaks are cut thin or facilities for broiling are not available. In either method the steak is cooked by slow heat so that it will remain tender and full-flavored. The degree of doneness of the steak can be controlled by the length of cooking time.

The first step is to slash the fat around the edge of the meat so that the steak remains flat during cooking.

A steak such as this needs no description, no superlative terminology. Just that it is a steak is enough. And because it is a sirloin steak, cut moderately thick, you know that it will serve from four to six people. Only the very simplest of accompaniments are necessary.

Next, place the steak on the broiling rack about 2 to 3 inches from the heat and cook until brown, usually about 15 minutes for a club steak and 17 minutes for a porterhouse, T-bone, or sirloin steak, all to the medium well done stage. Now season the top surface of the meat, turn, and cook the other side until brown, allowing about the same length of cooking time. Season the top surface, and serve immediately on a hot platter—steak should never be kept waiting!

May Also Panbroil
Panbroiling is very similar to broiling. The steak is cooked in a heavy frying-pan, and the temperature is controlled by regulating the heat rather than by the distance from the heat. The important thing is to pour off the fat as it accumulates, so the steak is truly panbroiled. Rub the frying-pan with a bit of ending.

POP Goes the QUEEN

By Bob Wade and Bill Miller

THE STORY: John Henry and Sin Conover with an expensive-paid vacation at a swank California resort after a successful appearance on a quiz program. Their arrival coincides with the unusual interest from Gayner, the hotel clerk, and Miss Thelma Loomis, a gossip columnist. Later, as the Conovers dress for dinner, Homer Anglin, wounded in the shoulder, enters their cottage, apparently expecting to meet someone. When Anglin finds he's made a mistake, he leaves, warning the Conovers of nothing of his visit. Then Mr. Trim, who introduces himself as a representative of the quiz show sponsor, appears. After wishing the Conovers a pleasant stay, he departs. As he goes he sees the cottage wall beside the door. "Say," he remarks, "that looks like blood." "Sure does," says John Henry, closing the door.

IV
THEY went to the Ship of the Desert for dinner. Just a block east from the Las Dunas, it catered to the hotel's wealthy clientele, a set that could pay four dollars for steak without expecting stock in the restaurant.

With sincere heartiness, the Conovers ate at a candle-lit table near the bandstand where a small waterfall rippled over neon-illuminated rocks. To the left of the waterfall, contorted ironwork stairs led to a small balcony that ran across the north wall and commanded a view of the entire establishment.

Atmosphere was rampant—even the waiters wore vivid Arab burnouses—but the management had underwritten the lushness with excellent cuisine.

Sin pushed back her plate with a contented noise. "Now if I can just have some coffee—" John Henry reconnoitered after their waiter and then craned his neck still farther. "Odd," he said softly.

"Um?" "I thought for a minute I saw—him. Our friend with the gun." Sin's laugh blanketed her exas-peration but John Henry looked defensive.

"That was the first time anybody ever drew a gun on me," he said, almost complacently.

Now that he had tasted excitement, John Henry was reluctant to spit it out.

"Well, as a matter of record, the whole thing happened mainly to me," Sin pointed out.

"Uh-huh. But it was me he was talking about."

"I don't know why you don't go ahead and report it to the police then."

"Sin—I don't think you have any lust for adventure. A mysterious stranger with a gun, a bloody handprint on our own front porch—"

"Oh, I wouldn't say that. Just because I don't think there's a mad doctor hiding under our table or—"

JOHN HENRY looked sideways quickly and hunched closer to his wife. "That's the strange thing, Sin," he murmured. "I've had a kind of a feeling that we're being watched." Her green eyes didn't change expression but he straightened and flushed. Anyway, "All right, all right—I know it sounds funny."

The waiter, plump even in the loose burnouse, was at his elbow. Conover flinched and Sin asked sweetly, "You having dessert, dear?"

"No, I guess not." Dourly, John Henry ordered two coffees. "Black. And the check too, please."

After the waiter had hustled off, Sin regarded her husband with gentle amusement. "I suppose you think our Arab's been spying on us, too."

"I wouldn't be surprised. He's been at my elbow all through the meal."

"You're just not used to good service, honey. People who eat here expect attention."

"Well, I still think something's going on behind our backs. Something big." Johnny nodded and locked his fingers under his chin. "Something that involves a transfer of something from someone to someone. Didn't the man say he had 'it' for me?"

"It could be anything."

"I'd like to meet that fellow again. Next time, you can bet your life I'll find out just what's going on."

THE rounded Arab-gowned waiter returned with coffee in the rough pottery jug that the Ship of the Desert affected. He poured quickly and skillfully, deposited a woven salver containing the bill on the table and journeyed back toward the mecca of the kitchen.

"I won't be surprised next time," John Henry stared balefully at his coffee. "Just let anybody make a suspicious move."

Sin sipped in some of the steaming black liquid. "Good coffee," she murmured. "But I still think your imagination's running away with you." She jumped and screamed, "Johnny!"

John Henry had knocked over his coffee cup. All around chairs scraped and customers craned toward the commotion. Curious eyes saw a young man with white face staring at the bill as it lay on the woven salver.

Sin reddened, semi-angry at being part of the floor show. She looked at the spreading brown stain. "Honey, you've certainly ruined their tablecloth—"

But her husband's white face was curiously triumphant. "There!" he whispered.

"What? I can't hear you."

"There, Sin—that ought to prove what I said. Look at that!"

His forefinger stabbed toward the salver. Sin indulgently looked at it, at the bill lying across it. Then she stared, awestruck.

It wasn't a bill at all. It was just an ordinary playing card. The Queen of Diamonds. And across the queen's face someone had written in a bold hand: "Your deal."

Boy Scouts Need Strong Leadership To Serve Youth

County and state police were on the lookout for a hit and run driver Thursday evening who is alleged to have struck and damaged a car earlier in the day on route 104, west of the city.

According to the sheriff's office, the unknown driver, headed west in a 1935 Ford, sideswiped an east-bound 1948 Ford, driven by George W. Rusk of Peru, Ill., at 5:55 p.m. Thursday afternoon.

Although Rusk was uninjured, the left side of his vehicle was considerably damaged. It was towed to the Brummett garage in this city.

Car Continues On
As the west-bound Ford continued on after the accident, police theorized that damage to it was negligible. Whether or not the driver sustained injury is of course unknown, but the police are anxious to know the answer in addition to why he did not stop.

Route 104 was the scene of another traffic mishap at 5 p.m. Thursday. A truck belonging to the Zeller Truck Lines of Alexander, driven by Clyde Lewis of Ashland, struck the right side of a Nash coupe, driven by Lloyd Darwent of Franklin.

Darwent is the rural mail carrier at Franklin. Other occupants of the car included his wife and daughter, Virginia.

The Nash was badly damaged and was towed to the Eby garage in Franklin. The truck was able to continue under its own power to Alexander.

None of the occupants of the two vehicles were badly injured although the Darwent family was somewhat shaken up by the impact of the collision.

Members of the sheriff's force investigated both accidents.

The Rev. Marston was one of 52 ministers from Illinois who attended this special seminar. He was introduced by Dr. M. A. Summers, program chairman.

Stressing his belief that there will be an emotional and intellectual strain during the next few years, the Rev. Marston commented on the fact that Washington is in a state of fear due to the "cold war" with Russia. The rising tide of communism in China is another source of tension.

He also commented on the possibility of adopting federal health insurance, socialized medicine and federal aid to education in the United States.

Announcement that the 1949 Lions' minstrel will be held April 5, 6 and 7 was made by Lion M. O. Matthews, general chairman of the minstrel committee.

Boy Scouts Need Strong Leadership To Serve Youth

Outlining a two year crusade to "Strengthen the Arm of Liberty" in observance of the 40th anniversary of organized scouting, Scout Executive William Hoffman of Springfield, chief of the Abraham Lincoln Council of Boy Scouts, spoke to the Kiwanis club Thursday.

"Great forward strides have been made in the Boy Scout movement since its official inception in 1910," Hoffman declared, "but its leadership must constantly be improved and its program expanded if we are to meet the challenge of the youth of today."

"The growth of scouting is shown by the fact that one out of every five males in this country was at one time or another a Boy Scout," the speaker said. "It must continue to grow so that every young man will have the opportunity to receive scout training."

The most important values of scouting are the intangible values of honesty, reverence and loyalty to America's ideals. These cannot be measured or recognized by merit badge awards but they are nonetheless the end objective of the entire program, Mr. Hoffman explained.

Don McDermott, local scout executive and Kiwanis program chairman for the day, introduced the speaker. A large number of scout leaders were present as guests of the club.

Sam Pinson, proprietor of the Kal-amazoo Appliance Store here, was welcomed into Kiwanis as a new member.

Legion Auxiliary Presents Program On Americanism

A special program on Americanism featured the meeting of the American Legion auxiliary unit 279 held Wednesday evening, Mrs. F. J. Perry, chairman, presided, assisted by Mrs. Raymond Templin. The rights and duties of American citizenship were stressed.

Mrs. Perry talked on the new part of the Americanism program for this year, which is the "School Savings Program" sponsored by the United States government. The purpose of the program is to encourage school children to buy government savings stamps and eventually a bond.

Privileges Stressed
Mrs. Perry told of the many privileges enjoyed by citizens of this country. She said she was proud to belong to an organization where it is proper to discuss religion and patriotism, as each meeting is opened with the words "For God and Country."

Mrs. Earl Underbrink was unable to be present but sent some excerpts and quotations on the subjects of Americanism and Patriotism. These were read by Mrs. Perry.

Mrs. Templin quoted from speeches given by Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln which illustrated the characteristics of the great men in our history who helped to make America great. She also read a number of poems.
